House Gives Ike Victory By Passing Reserve Bill

Powell Loses Fight To Ban Segregation

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The House gave President Eisenhower a dramatic new victory today by breaking an anti-segregation impasse and then passing his bill to build up a trained military reserve of nearly three million men.

First the chamber voted down, 156-105, a new attempt by Rep. Powell (D-NY) to tack on an amendment against segregation in the National Guard. Then it defeated 161-52 a motion by Rep. Nelson (R-Maine) to send the bill back to committee. Finally it passed the bill and sent it to the Senate.

The votes on the Powell amendment and Nelson move were standing ones and the final decision was by voice vote because there was insufficient demand for a roll call. Thus there was no record of how individual members voted.

GOP, Dixie Demos Team Up

However, reporters noted that almost all Republicans present and virtually all Southern Democrats voted against the Powell amendment. It was supported by numbers of Northern Democrats and a handful of Republicans.

Passage came two days after Eisenhower chided the Democratic-controlled Congress for not acting on more of his legislation, including the reserves bill he has called vital to the nation's security.

It is designed to increase the trained reserve from 700,000 to 2,900,000 men in four years, largely through teen-age volunteers for special six months' training and 7½ years reserve duty.

Powell Won First Round

The measure had been blocked temporarily in the House May 18 when Powell got in an amendment prohibiting federal assignment of reservists to segregated guard units. The vote then was 126-87. Many supporters of the amendment actually were opposing the reserve program itself.

Under constant prodding by the President, the House Armed Services Committee rewrote the measure, eliminating all reference to the guard, and sent it back to the House. Other major provisions were left unchanged.

Doomed Model Doesn't Appeal

LONDON, July 1 (AP)—A beautiful platinum blonde, Mrs. Ruth Ellis, passed up today the last chance to appeal her sentence to hang July 13 for killing her lover because he hit her.

The deadline expired at 3:30 p.m. "No further statement will be made," said one of the ex-model's attorneys who announced 10 days ago she would not ask for a new trial. It appeared she had little will to live.

Mrs. Ellis, 28, a divorcee with two children, could yet escape the gallows. Queen Elizabeth II may grant clemency upon recommendation of the home secretary. In all but the most vicious of crimes, the home secretary usually relieves women murderers.

A well-known figure in Mayfair nightclub life, Mrs. Ellis was convicted June 21 of killing David Blakely, 25, a racing motorist, outside a London tavern on Easter Sunday. She had fired four bullets into his body.

Her only defense was that she was provoked by jealousy.

Benson Makes Up For His Slight Of Burma Premier

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson mended his frayed relations with Burma today. He gave Prime Minister U Nu a top drawer reception and appointed an official to take charge of politeness to VIPs in the future.

He even gave U Nu a tie clasp.

Transit Strike Brings Traffic Jams To Capital

Solons Would Lift Firm's Franchise

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—A group of senators acted today to take away the franchise of the Capital Transit Co. in the wake of a strike which has knocked out the city's main transportation system and created a king-sized traffic jam.

Traffic Director George C. Kenney reported the volume of automobile traffic was 25 to 40 per cent higher than normal and "the worst I've ever seen here."

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) and others introduced a resolution in the Senate to take up the company's franchise as soon as possible and give it to another private firm.

"Financial Abuses"

Morse asserted Congress can no longer tolerate Capital Transit's "financial abuses" and "exceedingly bad service."

Louis E. Wolfson, who recently waged an unsuccessful fight to get control of Montgomery Ward & Co., the big mail order and retail merchandising firm, is chairman of Capital Transit's board.

Other members of Congress were for seizing the transportation system and operating it as an arm of the government.

Cops' Leaves Canceled

The Metropolitan Police Department canceled all holiday leaves and stationed policemen at almost every intersection downtown to cope with the deluge of motor cars from outlying areas. Many cars were packed with passengers, riding in prearranged pools or picked up at random on the way to work. The government urged federal workers to take some of their annual leave at this time and stay home if possible.

Meanwhile, federal mediators met with company representatives and scheduled a later session with officers of the AFL Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, representing the 2,400 striking bus and street car drivers.

Weather Bureau Says July To Be Hotter Than Usual

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The Weather Bureau said today the western United States may expect cooler than usual weather in July, with more rainfall than normal.

The East can expect temperatures higher than usual, with comparatively dry weather in a broad zone running southwestward from the Middle Atlantic States into Alabama and Mississippi.

Woman Succeeds In Leaping To Death

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—A blonde in a blue summer dress tried to leap from the 32nd floor of a Wall Street skyscraper today.

"I have an appointment," she muttered to building employees who restrained her and took her to the lobby to await police.

However, the woman broke away from them, raced a block away to a Pine Street skyscraper and plunged from the 30th floor to her death.

Benson Makes Up For His Slight Of Burma Premier

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—which the Premier from the road to Mandalay accepted with a smile, although he never wears a tie.

All this stemmed from an international incident yesterday when U Nu walked out on Benson because he was kept cooling his heels for five minutes in an anteroom. The walkout sent agitated quivers through State Department protocol circles.

But the Prime Minister accepted an invitation to return at 8:45 a.m. today, and this time Benson unrolled the red carpet. He and U Nu were closeted for half an hour, talking about crops and other things.

A crisp announcement from the Agriculture Department disclosed later that Asst. Secretary Robert D. McMillen has got a new title—protocol officer. He will handle all future dealings with prominent foreign visitors.

Rowdy Turncoat Arrested, China Radio Reports

TOKYO, July 1 (AP)—Peiping radio tonight said some of the three American and two Belgian ex-soldiers due to leave Red China soon have been drunk and disorderly and have insulted women and police while awaiting exit.

A broadcast, heard here, of a statement by Lin Shih-hsiao, vice secretary general of the Red Cross Society of China, said Otto G. Bell of Olympia, Wash., was arrested Wednesday because he "abused and committed provocative acts against passing citizens and the policeman on duty in the street, and threatened them with assault."

Louis Verdyck, one of the Belgians, was arrested June 19 "for disturbing public order," Lin's statement said.

One Of Missing Marine Fliers Is Found Dead

TOKYO, Saturday, July 2 (AP)—One of four missing Marine airmen was found dead yesterday in the wreckage of his jet plane on a little volcanic Pacific island normally skirted by fliers because of tricky winds that swirl crazily above it.

The unflagging hunt for the three others entered its sixth day with at least 12 planes and 13 ships maneuvering in a criss-cross pattern through a 16,000-square-mile area south of here. Weather was clear.

"The search must go on as long as there is any hope," said an Air Force spokesman, "and there certainly is hope."

Lost During Search

The body found was listed tentatively by the Marine Corps as that of Lt. Alan M. McAneny, Yonkers, N.Y. He became lost in haze Tuesday while hunting for Capt. H. P. Montague of Jackson, Miss., and Lt. David Winton Bell of Minneapolis, whose disappearance Sunday in a twin-jet Sky-knight fighter touched off the search.

One other Marine airman, lost on Wednesday when a helicopter ditched in the search, was identified yesterday by the Defense Department in Washington as Lt. James R. Day, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin F. Day Minneapolis.

Islanders Find Wreckage

The wreckage of McAneny's Fury jet was found by islanders 400 feet below the 2,470-foot summit of Mt. Mihara on Oshima, 65 miles south of Tokyo. The swift fighter plane, Marine version of the Sabre Jet, had ripped out a wide-pit on the east slope of the volcanic cone. A helicopter removed the body.

The spot was less than 1½ miles from the scene of a Japan Air Lines transport crash in 1953 that killed all aboard, including the American crew.

One Man Killed In Train Wreck

WATSEKA, Ill., July 1 (AP)—One man was killed and 29 persons were reported injured today when a Chicago & Eastern Illinois train carrying 110 passengers was derailed at Papineau, Ill.

The dead man was identified as William Dick, about 50, of Evansville, Ind., conductor of the train. Three of the injured were kept in Iroquois Hospital, Watseka, for treatment.

The Chicago-to-Evansville local train, consisting of a diesel locomotive and three coaches, tipped on its right side, blocking the main street crossing at Papineau, some 13 miles north of Watseka.

Nobody Jumped

DETROIT, July 1 (AP)—Elevators in the 29-story Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel were knocked out today by a power failure.

Among those stranded on top floors were hundreds of veteran paratroopers in town for a meeting of the 82nd Airborne Division.

Mt. Etna Acting Up

CATANIA, Sicily, July 1 (AP)—Mt. Etna started coughing today and specialists were hurried in to see if Europe's oldest active volcano is going to erupt again.

After peering inside volcanologists said it was too early to tell.

Dixon-Yates Fund Holdup Is Endorsed

Senate Unit's Move Strengthens Belief Project Is Doomed

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The Dixon-Yates private power project, a storm center issue between President Eisenhower and public power advocates for more than a year, was wobbling on its last legs today.

In Congress, key Republicans joined jubilant Democrats in a move to withhold funds for a power line to link the private project with the government's Tennessee Valley Authority system.

These funds, 6½ million dollars, are crucial. Unless they are provided, even if the Dixon-Yates plant is completed its power would be left stranded in the middle of the Mississippi River.

New Study Launched

And within the administration, officials began a new study, directed by President Eisenhower himself, to decide whether to scrap the contract so stoutly defended by Eisenhower for many months.

Democratic leaders in Congress said the project is doomed. They predicted the administration would abandon it. But even if the administration persists, they said, Congress will see to it now that the project is killed.

These and many other developments stemmed from an announcement by the city of Memphis, Tenn., that it will build its own power plant rather than accept Dixon-Yates power. Foes of the project, joined by some former supporters, concluded that in the light of this decision the Dixon-Yates plant is no longer needed.

Will Go Ahead, Dixon Says

Against this backdrop, these were the rapid-fire developments today:

1. The Senate Appropriations Committee voted to withhold the 6½ million dollars for the TVA transmission link to Dixon-Yates "if within a period of 90 days after the approval of this act the city of Memphis has made a definite commitment to supply its power needs and the (TVA) is relieved of this obligation."

2. In New York, Edgar H. Dixon, president of Middle South Utilities, said, "As far as we're concerned we still have a contract with the Atomic Energy Commission calling for completion of the first unit of the plant by August 1957, and we will continue to go ahead."

Auto Death Toll Of 380 Forecast

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP)—The National Safety Council has predicted that heavy Independence Day weekend traffic will take at least 380 lives.

During the 78-hour period from 6 o'clock tonight to midnight Monday, Council engineers estimated, some 40 million automobiles will take to the roads.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Council, suggested prayer as a means of holding down traffic fatalities.

ONTARIO, Calif., July 1 (AP)—Twenty-two National Guard jet pilots from 21 states take off tomorrow in the second annual Ricks Trophy dash from this Southern California base to Detroit, Mich.

Red Prober Says N.Y. Times Did Not Violate Security

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.) said today it appears The New York Times "did nothing to violate security" in publishing a story disclosing the use of F-86 Sabre jet fighters in the Korean War in December 1950.

Eastland, chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, said he had no reason to doubt a statement by the Times that it had obtained clearance from the Pentagon for the news story.

Eastland insisted the subcommittee never had charged the Times with violating security. He said he was glad to make a statement absolving the Times of any such charge "in the interest of complete fairness."

Charles Grutzner, a Times reporter who wrote the Sabre jet story, was questioned about it yesterday at a subcommittee hearing at which he acknowledged that he had joined the Communist party in 1937 while a reporter on the Brooklyn Eagle.

Traffic Jam In Transit Strike

Homeward-bound Washington workers, without city bus and trolley service because of a Capital Transit Co. strike, jam Pennsylvania avenue with automobiles. Relaxation of restrictions during the walkout permitted motorists to park cars on center avenue tracks which added to the confusion at the quitting time rush yesterday.

Eight Jet Pilots Crash To Deaths In Portugal Fog

COIMBRA, Portugal, July 1 (AP)—Eight Portuguese fighter pilots rode to death in formation in American-built Thunderjets today.

They crashed in a thick fog in mountain country—one four-plane flight above the other—while on the way from Ota air base to an air force show at Coimbra, an ancient university center 110 miles northeast of Lisbon.

The blast and flames of the crashes carried aloft to four fellow pilots flying top cover for the 12-plane squadron. All these emerged unscathed. One was Capt. Rangel de Lima, the squadron commander, known as "Lucky Lima" for his narrow escapes in the past.

The commander said the eight jets hurtled into the 1,500-foot Sierra dos Carvalhos, blanketed and invisible in the fog.

Debris of the planes were scattered over a square mile of the mountainside just outside Coimbra. Timber and brush were charred. Rescue workers moved the pilots' bodies to a chapel in the nearby hamlet of Carvalhos.

Three parachutes were found intact, one of them wide open, some distance from the main wreckage. This was a mystery to be deciphered in the official investigation of the disaster.

92 Women In Air Race

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 1 (AP)—Ninety-two women fliers take off tomorrow on their ninth and longest Powder Puff Derby, a 2,800-mile aerial chase from here to Springfield, Mass.

Fifty-two light planes, some carrying copilots, are entered.

Woman Driver Who Caused Big Smashup Fined

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—A visiting woman driver got a $15 fine and a lecture from the judge today for causing one of Manhattan's big traffic smashups.

Miss Mary Carolyn McAuley, 24, also was sentenced to 15 days in jail but was suspended.

Miss McAuley, of Laramie, Wyo., now a home economics teacher at the University of Illinois, arrived June 22 on vacation.

The next morning as she drove through the Times Square area, she failed to get out of the way of a fire truck. It collided with her car and caused a pileup of nine vehicles. Ten persons were injured, none seriously.

Three Copper Producers Shut Down By Strike

DENVER, July 1 (AP)—Three of the nation's largest copper producers were shut down by a strike today but a union spokesman said that there are "some real prospects of settlement during the course of the day."

The strike was called after midnight when the companies had refused to meet the demands of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (I.M.S.W.) for a 29-cent-an-hour wage hike plus fringe benefits which include what the union called a modified version of the guaranteed annual wage.

Affected were the plants and mines operated by American Smelting & Refining Co., Phelps Dodge Corp., and Kennecott Copper Corp.

Employees of the Anaconda Co., the other of the Big Four, stayed on the job.

The Big Four employs an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 union members.

The union, which has headquarters in Denver, would make no statement on the Anaconda situation. Anaconda has offered a 10-cent-an-hour increase.

Vaccine Question Remains Up In Air

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The question of when more polio vaccine will be released was still up in the air tonight.

A group of experts advising the Public Health Service met all day. Afterward the Health Service said the group would meet again tomorrow but "it is not possible at this time to determine whether any recommendations will be made concerning release of more vaccine."

500 Feared Drowned

KOTA BHARU, Malaya, Saturday, July 2 (AP)—Delayed reports reaching this town in northeastern Malaya today said 500 persons were believed to have drowned in a tidal wave off Patani in southern Thailand on June 23.

Workers Win 15-Cent-Plus Hourly Boost

U. S. Steel To Hike Prices Of Products About 5.8 Per Cent

By JOHN MOODY

PITTSBURGH, July 1 (AP)—The shortest steel strike in history ended today when pacesetter U. S. Steel Corp. agreed to increase wages of its hourly workers slightly more than 15 cents an hour.

Within a few hours after the big firm signed with the CIO United Steel Workers all other basic producers making up the industry's "Big Six" came to terms.

U. S. Steel quickly announced that it is boosting prices about 5.8 per cent, amounting to slightly less than $7.50 a ton. Basic carbon steel now sells for about $125 a ton.

Similar price boosts are expected throughout the industry. Within a short time consumers are expected to begin paying more for the thousands of products made from steel.

U. S. Steel, which has about 150,000 USW employees, broke the back of the strike by agreeing to the new contract a little less than 12 hours after the walkout started.

Pact Is Compromise

By 8:30 p.m. the five other top producers employing USW members had signed. They were led by Bethlehem Steel Corp., the No. 2 company. Then came, in order of their production capacity, Republic Steel Co., Jones & Laughlin, Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., and Inland Steel Co.

Pittsburgh Steel also signed. Union officials said all of the 96 basic steel producers with which it holds contracts were expected to agree to the contract quickly, giving the pay hike to a total of 600,000 USW members.

The new contract is a compromise. Union president David J. McDonald never said just exactly what he wanted but last week he emphatically rejected an offer to boost wages slightly more than 10 cents an hour.

Plenty Of Celebrating

The quick ending of the strike came as picket lines circled steel plants throughout the country. There was no disorder. And there was plenty of celebrating in the mill towns when word of the agreement was flashed.

Both McDonald and Clifford F. Hood, president of U. S. Steel, hailed the settlement as the basis for "Greater respect and understanding of each other."

Hood said work in the corporation's steel producing plants "will be resumed as quickly as possible to minimize the loss of shipments to steel customers."

It was expected production would be normal again Tuesday, following Monday's July 4 holiday.

Steelworkers greeted the settlement with happy shouts as McDonald read off the terms to the union's 170-member Wage Policy Committee.

Strike Emergency Declared In Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 1 (AP)—President Carlos Ibanez declared a state of emergency in parts of Chile today as 60,000 government workers struck for more pay and a halt to inflation.

In the first acts of violence three strikers beat up a railroad worker and a railroad car was set afire.

The walkout affected government-operated railways, bus and street car systems, shipping and postal and telegraph services. Privately owned bus systems were not involved.

Ibanez' decree brought all industrial areas under military control.

5,000 French Bees In U. S. Follow Paris Timetable

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Those visiting French bees are 3,000 miles from home. But their appetites still operate on a Paris timetable.

That was the preliminary report today of an experiment on time sense of bees conducted at the American Museum of Natural History by Dr. Max Renner, zoologist of the University of Munich.

On the human plane, the bees' performance might be compared to a blind man catching a bus at the same time every morning even though there was no one to tell him the time.

Dr. Renner flew from Paris June 14 with his 5,000 bees.

In Paris, he had trained them to forage for sugar water from 8:15 to 10:15 p.m. Paris time, which is five hours ahead of New York time. He wanted to find out whether they could judge time without themselves or whether their judgment was hitched to some external time factor, such as the rhythm of visiting French bees are 3,000 miles from home. But their appetites still operate on a Paris timetable.

IN THE DAYS OF DAVY CROCKETT

The United States went wild over Jackson, the nation's hero. Andy, however, took it in his stride. He'd just done his duty. And, in doing it, he'd evened the score for the cowardly blow that Redcoat officer had given him when he was just a boy.

The second war with England was over but there was trouble in Florida where, it was reported, the Spanish were arming Indians to fight against the United States. Jackson went there and promptly seized the city of Pensacola. The Spanish cooled off, quick.

Then the people of the United States gave Andy Jackson their greatest reward. They elected him President! And, to prove it was no mistake, they re-elected him! Somehow, the people felt safer with Old Hickory in the White House, watching out for them.

Tuckered out from a long, hard life, Andy Jackson retired and went back to Tennessee to a fine home he'd built there; the Hermitage, it was called. There he spent the evening of life remembering the great days and great men he'd known—like Davy Crockett.

This concludes the story of four heroes of Davy Crockett's time.

Utah Firing Squad Executes Cop Killer

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Francisco man lunched against his was taking them to the police station when he was shot.

Utah, July 1 (P)—A volunteer firing squad killed Don Jesse Neal at dawn today in retribution for the murder of a Salt Lake City policeman.

The state turned Neal's body over to a gray-haired widow who was no relation but said she befriended him as "one of God's fellow creatures" and finally came to love him as a mother.

A black hood covered Neal's head as he sat strapped in the bullet-nicked execution chair at Utah State Prison. Only the twitching of his arms betrayed taut nerves.

Concentration Of U. S. Aid In Asia Urged By Stassen

WASHINGTON, July 1 (P)—Harold Stassen stepped down as foreign aid chief today with a plea that America concentrate most of its aid funds in Free Asia "for a long time to come."

A few minutes after he submitted his final report to President Eisenhower, former Republican Congressman John B. Hollister took over as his successor.

With Eisenhower and most of his Cabinet looking on, Hollister, 64, a Cincinnati lawyer friend of the late Sen. Taft, became head of the government's newest agency, the International Cooperation Administration.

With the start today of a new fiscal year, the old Foreign Operations Administration headed by Stassen went out of existence. Most of its functions were transferred to the new agency under Hollister in the State Department.

Stassen is serving now as Eisenhower's special assistant for world disarmament problems.

As the shift took place, Eisenhower sent to Congress a request for $3,265,641,750 in appropriations for foreign aid this year. The House and Senate already have voted separate authorization bills, which set a general ceiling to be followed by specific appropriations later.

The House yesterday authorized $3,285,800,000, which is 139 million less than the Senate version. The authorization goes now to a Senate-House conference committee for adjustment of the difference.

Hollister said nothing of his foreign aid views but Stassen made public a detailed 21-page survey of world economic conditions.

To back up his plea for more aid in Asia, Stassen warned Communist regimes in Asia were going all-out to show they could industrialize far faster than nearby democracies.

This area, extending from Afghanistan to Japan, he said, offers "the most urgent challenge and earnest opportunity" confronting the United States.

At the same time, however, Stassen cautioned against limiting American help to weapons and military equipment needed to counter the armed threat of communism.

Undertaker's Jail Sentence Suspended

BALTIMORE, July 1 (P)—A Hagerstown undertaker, convicted in Federal Court four days ago of sending obscene pamphlets through the mail to a widow, was released today on probation.

Federal Judge Roszel C. Thompson said additional facts had been placed before him which caused him to suspend a six-month prison term for John Watkins Minnich.

However, the judge stipulated that a $1,000 fine must be paid promptly.

When Judge Thompson took Minnich's guilty plea last Monday, he said the weekly mailing of obscene material for several months to the woman, an acquaintance of Minnich's in a bowling league, seemed to suggest "cruelty."

Today, however, the judge said additional facts "convinced me the defendant was not moved by cruelty or any desire to hurt the prosecuting witness." He called the offense a "very crude and adolescent type of act."

Conviction Of Ryan, Ex-ILA Head, Upset

NEW YORK, July 1 (P)—The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today reversed the conviction of Joseph P. Ryan, ex-president of the International Longshoremen's Ass'n. (ILA) on charges of accepting money from employer firms.

The court voted two to one to reverse on the ground Ryan was not a representative of the union within the meaning of the Taft-Hartley law.

Ryan was convicted on three counts charging violation of the Taft-Hartley Act. He was accused of accepting $2,500 from corporations employing members of the union, and was sentenced to serve six months and fined $2,500.

Visitors Must Be Fingerprinted, U. S. Tells Soviet

WASHINGTON, July 1 (P)—The State Department officially admitted today that somebody fumbled in permitting Russian chess players and skiers to get visas for visiting the United States last year without being fingerprinted.

The admission was made in a note delivered to the Soviet government Tuesday and made public today. It informed the Soviets that hereafter no visitors other than officials such as diplomats may come to the United States without being fingerprinted.

That is the law, the note said, and the requirement cannot be waived.

The Soviet government has complained about the fingerprinting requirement. Last April 11 student editors canceled an American tour because of it.

Soviet officials have been pressing American officials to let their people enter without conforming to this requirement. It is understood they have cited the cases of the chess team and the skiers as evidence it could be done.

The note said, "This action was taken through administrative inadvertence on the part of the visa-issuing officials."

East Swelters In Moist Heat

(By The Associated Press)

The eastern half of the country and a huge chunk of the Southwest steved in moist heat Friday.

Fortunately, the start of the Independence Day weekend liberated thousands to search for relief in woodlands, mountains, lakes and ocean resorts.

Temperatures moved up into the 90 bracket shortly after lunch time as far north as Boston and Chicago.

Readings included: Clovis, N.M., and Alice, Tex., 97; Chicago 93; Boston 90; Washington 91; Tucson, Ariz., 95; San Antonio 88; Minneapolis 83; Miami 86; Denver 85; Toledo, Ohio, 89.

June Both Wetter, Cooler Than Average

BALTIMORE, July 1 (P)—June, as most folks probably guessed, was both a wet and cool month.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Friendship Airport said today rainfall measured at the Custom House in downtown Baltimore totaled 7.83 inches, 4.31 inches above normal for June.

In fact, said the bureau, that's the most in any month since April 1952.

The average temperature was almost three degrees below normal for June and was the lowest for the month since 1928, 27 years ago.

William Tell was a real person. He was a Swiss patriot who lived in the 14th century.

Appropriations Bills Advanced On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, July 1 (P)—Bills involving several billion dollars in government spending were acted upon in Congress today.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved a $1,377,000,000 program for public works in the year beginning today.

The Senate gave overwhelming approval, on a voice vote, to a global military construction program of $2,357,317,300.

The House whipped through and sent to the Senate a compromise bill appropriating $466,302,415—17 million less than the President asked—to finance the State and Justice Departments and related agencies for the next year.

The Senate promptly approved the compromise, sending the bill to the White House.

President Eisenhower signed a bill appropriating $1,245,360,000 to finance the Commerce Department and related agencies. This, too, is for the fiscal year starting today.

The amount was 121 millions less than the President requested.

The public works bill approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee contains funds for the Atomic Energy Commission, Tennessee Valley Authority, several Department of Interior agencies, including reclamation, and the huge Army Engineers' civil works program. The bill will reach the Senate floor Tuesday.

The Senate made between 20 and 40 changes in the hundreds of projects, many of them military secrets, previously approved by the House, in the global military construction program.

A conference committee is expected to adjust differences before Congress acts on a separate money bill providing actual funds.

Ban On Apple Price Predictions Vetoed

WASHINGTON, July 1 (P)—President Eisenhower today vetoed a bill (HR5188) to prohibit prediction by the government of prices regarding apple prices.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Harrison (D-Va.) who comes from Virginia's commercial apple-growing section as does Sen. Byrd (D-Va.).

Returning the bill to the House, Eisenhower said in a message of disapproval that the proposed ban would seriously limit the ability of the Agriculture Department to "counteract price rumors detrimental to the farmers' interest."

Man's Mutilated Body Found On B&O Tracks

BALTIMORE, July 1 (P)—Police were seeking the identity of a middle-aged man whose mutilated body was found early today on Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks in the nearby Lansdowne section of Baltimore County.

The body, found shortly before 1 a. m. about 100 yards south of the Sulphur Springs crossing.

A Washington to New York passenger train passed the spot about 12:30 a. m. It was stopped at Newark, N. J., and found to have bits of clothing and flesh on the engine's undercarriage. The engineer reported seeing nothing unusual when passing the spot.

Section Of Road Opened

BALTIMORE, July 1 (P)—Opened to traffic today was one-lane of a three-mile section of highway in the project to dualize U.S. 301. Today's section extends from Waldorf to White Plains in Charles County.

The road ultimately will be dualized from Baltimore to the Potomac River Bridge.

Marland Names Sawyers W.Va. Road Commissioner

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 1 (P)—Gov. Marland today appointed his executive assistant, Burl A. Sawyers of Charleston, as state road commissioner and named James M. Donohoe of Huntington as president of the Board of Control.

The governor appointed Joseph Thomas, Charleston Republican, and former municipal judge, as minority member of the Board of Probation and Parole. Thomas succeeds James P. Easley of Charleston, whose term expired yesterday.

A long list of appointments handed out by the governor's office late this afternoon also included reappointment of Joseph P. Condry of Clarksburg to a four-year term as motor vehicles commissioner.

Clyde W. Rinehart of Fayetteville, a former Fayette County sheriff, was appointed a member of the Conservation Commission to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of R. H. Miller Jr. of Gauley Bridge.

Sawyers succeeds H. Keith Griffith in the $9,000-a-year road commissioner's post.

Marland made Sawyers' appointment for a term which will expire 30 days after the Legislature convenes next January. All of the major appointments are subject to confirmation by the State Senate next year.

Donohoe, who is president of the Cabell County Court, replaces Joe F. Burdett of Point Pleasant in the $7,000-a-year post as president of the Board of Control. Burdett announced his resignation earlier this week after six years in the position.

Burdett said Marland gave him a choice of resigning from the board or eliminating himself entirely as a possible candidate for governor next year. Burdett said that, while not definitely a candidate, he chose to resign rather than commit himself to enter the race.

Among appointments announced by Marland earlier today was the re-appointment of William G. Stathers, Clarksburg Republican, to an eight-year term on the Turnpike Commission.

The governor also reappointed William G. Thompson of Montgomery to a nine-year term on the West Virginia University Board of Governors.

West Va. Awaits Vaccine Release

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 1 (P)—Local authorities in West Virginia were urged today to have all preparations made for early resumption of polio inoculation of first and second graders.

State Health Director N. H. Dyer said arrangements for volunteer physicians and nurses and transportation of children should be rechecked now to avoid any delays when Salk vaccine becomes available for the second round of inoculation.

Dr. Harte Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, advised Dr. Dyer in a letter that he had reason to believe the vaccination program could be resumed within the next 10 to 15 days.

The first round of inoculations in West Virginia was completed more than two months ago. Approximately 106,000 first and second graders in the state received the first shot, and of that number about 10,000 children in nine counties have been given their second shot with vaccine left over from the first shipment.

WANT ONE GOOD REASON?

Of course you "ought to go to church," you say. But, you keep putting it off. Then here's just one of the many reasons why you should start going to church—NOW!

As an American, you like to come and go where you please, and when. You like to speak what you please, and how. You like to pursue life, liberty, and happiness as you will. And in these United States you can—because we still have freedom. You can worship in whatever church you choose—or not at all. But this freedom of religion and all our other liberties should not be taken for granted. Throughout free countries, the Church is fighting the peril of communism, lest individuals be strangled into hopeless, plodding submission. Freedom, then, is reason enough. Go to church! Support and uphold the Church—NOW!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Prison Camp Being Planned For Tucker Co.

Juveniles To Work On State Park Plan

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 30 (AP)—Arrangements are under way for establishment of West Virginia's first forestry camp for young male lawbreakers on a temporary basis at Blackwater Falls State Park.

Warden Orel J. Skeen of the State Penitentiary and Kermit McKeever, chief of the division of parks, will meet in the Tucker County park next Wednesday to pick a site for the camp.

Plans call for beginning the movement of barracks-type buildings to the scene once the site has been selected. One such building is to be obtained from Shepherd College and one or two from Concord College.

The camp will be set up to house 60 to 65 juvenile offenders.

Conservation Director Carl J. Johnson explained that, if present plans materialize, the youths housed at the camp will be employed in connection with the current expansion program at Blackwater.

It is planned to use camp personnel in excavation for utility lines and, if funds are available, in construction of a nine-hole golf course.

Blackwater is one of several state parks which will undergo expansion of facilities with revenue bond financing authorized by the Legislature this year. Bids have been received on construction of a new lodge and 25 new cabins at Blackwater.

THE PROPER USE OF TRUMPS

THE AVERAGE player does entirely too much ruffing with his own long trump suit. He does not seem to realize that in nine cases out of ten he gains nothing from using his own trumps as ruffes, since he would make those same trumps in the normal course of play, simply by leading them. Note, however, that there is a "tenth case," in which the use of a trump as a ruff is vital.

nership had 10 trumps, that suit certainly figured to be solid, and consequently South could afford to lose a spade trick under normal circumstances.

However, when West opened the diamond ten, and declarer (after winning with the ace) cashed the ace of trumps, he was shocked to see East show out, and now the only reasonable play for the contract was the spade finesse. When that also failed, defeat was inevitable.

It goes without saying that South was extremely unlucky, particularly in the 3-0 break of trumps, but the fact remains that he could have anticipated and guarded against that very break via very simple play. South should have ruffed a low diamond at the second trick. There would be nothing risky about that play—East could not have held eight diamonds to the K-Q-J without overcalling, and so West's lead could not have been a singleton.

After ruffing, it would be natural to lead a heart to the ace. With East showing out, South should now ruff away dummy's last diamond; then he would merely have to cash the heart king and the three clubs, and throw West in with his heart queen. West would be end-played.

Keyser Mayor Tells Council City Faces Financial Task

KEYSER—At the first meeting of the new town council with the mayor for the fiscal year beginning July 1, a number of matters were discussed, in addition to assigning E. T. Kessel, the new member elected recently for a two-year term, to the post of water commissioner. The other two councilmen, Lester Oates, street commissioner, who has completed five years in office, and Paul Peters, commissioner of finance, will continue in their present positions. Peters is entering upon his fourth year as a councilman.

Mayor John C. Freeland, who has served the city since 1935, the first two years as finance commissioner and the remaining years, all but two, at which time he declined to be a candidate, he has served as mayor.

He opened the meeting, warning the councilmen that this coming year is a challenge because of conditions over which they have no control. He referred to prevalent high prices for materials the city will need to carry on the work of conducting the city as in the past, and informed his co-workers that so far as he can see, there is not much in sight that will enable the city to raise funds to meet these high prices. He said, "we are faced by the toughest year ahead in the city's history, because there is no way that a municipality can raise funds to meet these conditions, as is done by corporations and business."

The mayor spoke of the proposed operation of a land fill for disposal of garbage and waste matter in compliance with the W. Va. State Department of Health orders. He said this must be done and it will require an education course daily to train the citizens as to its community value.

All others, including Carl F. Theis, city clerk, municipal judge and other offices, and Guy Clem, as police chief, will continue in their respective posts. All other heads of city departments were re-named to continue in their positions.

William Waller, representing the West Virginia Health Department, was present and gave an account of the plan for the land-fill operation in accordance with state health laws.

Limestone School Well Is Drilled

PARSONS—Stelman W. Harper, county superintendent of schools, said the well at Limestone School, drilled by the Kelly Drilling Company of Terra Alta, has been completed with 1200 gallons of water per hour output.

The project was sponsored by the community at Limestone and Tucker County Board of Education. The community paid for the drilling of the well and the Board furnished the pump and installation cost. The pump has been installed and is ready for use when the school opens this fall.

The Limestone-White Ridge Farm Woman's Club is assisting with the payment of the cost of the drilling and held a social at the school Saturday evening.

Miss Olive Cook Gets Position At Albany

FROSTBURG — Miss Olive A. Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cook, Wood Street, is visiting with her parents for the month of July.

Miss Cook recently left her duties as director of Christian Education at the First Methodist Church of Rocky Mount, N. C., to assume a new position in the same capacity at Trinity Methodist Church of Albany, N. Y. on August 1. She had been at Rocky Mount for four years.

McCain Will 'Look Into' Road Dedication Costs

BALTIMORE, July 1 (AP) — The money in the past fiscal year for chairman of the State Roads Commission, Russell H. McCain, said today he would "like to check into" the part-the agency he controls plays in picking up tabs at road dedication luncheons.

McCain said "usually" contractors pay such expenses.

However, an Evening Sun story in Baltimore today said the expense account vouchers of Charles T. LeViness list thousands of dollars for such ceremonies in the past year.

Comptroller Carl L. Wannen of the SRC suggested that although LeViness has been reimbursed on his expense vouchers for dedication ceremony expenses, contractors also might be paying for additional expenses involved.

Six items on expense vouchers of LeViness, the SRC publicity chief, are for "receptions" for Gov. McKeldin at such places as Baltimore, Annapolis, Millington and Frederick where new road projects have been dedicated.

The Evening Sun said SRC records show LeViness has spent "several thousand dollars" of State such gatherings. The public relations office of the State Roads Commission has an annual budget of $25,091, including salaries, but in most cases dedication expenses were applied to specific road projects rather than from the public relations budget.

Meanwhile, a Baltimore senator—Goodman (D-Balto 5th)—said he would ask the Legislative Council to set up a committee to work out standard rules to govern State expense accounts.

Goodman said he thought entertainment charges should be barred entirely.

He pointed out that entertainment expenses incurred by the SRC were not illegal and are matters of public record.

"However, that doesn't make it right," he added.

Police Investigating Man From California

City Police have arrested a man who gave his name as James E. Combs, of Los Angeles, Calif., and are holding him for investigation. He was picked up at Central YMCA, according to Officer James W. Brown, night sergeant. Sgt. Brown explained city police had received a complaint from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad that Combs had attempted to pass a check at the ticket office.

Officials did not explain why the check was not cashed, but said that it was the reason for Combs being picked up. He had in his possession a pass card to the House of Representatives and he did not explain how he had obtained it, Sgt. Brown said.

Giving a Los Angeles address, Combs later told officers his real name was Emerick. He said he had come here from Chicago.

His fingerprints have been forwarded to other police departments and the FBI to see if he is wanted. Brooks told Sgt. Brown he had served ten years in an Iowa prison.

The Glorious Second Is Historical Too

July 2 is the day many members of the Continental Congress of 1776 presumed would always be observed in American history as the anniversary of the nation's independence. For it was on July 2, 1776, that a crucial vote was taken in Congress on the resolution that these "United Colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states."

Yet—July 2 has come to be merely one of the days when great preparations are made for the Fourth. Its significance has been almost forgotten in the rush of history and overgrown with misleading popular accounts of revolutionary events.

July 4 has survived as the great national holiday on which all Americans unite to commemorate national independence while, actually, the real conflict in Congress over the issue of independence was resolved on July 2. What's more, the document adopted on July 4, 1776, was signed on that day only by John Hancock, the president, "by order and in behalf of the Congress."

Why then did some founding fathers assume July 2 would be the day never forgotten in the nation? Hacking away much of the underbrush of history, it is disclosed that on June 7, 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia had introduced a resolution calling for national independence. A committee was appointed to draft such a declaration and the fate of the resolution itself was to be settled on July 2.

Not all congressmen were in favor of what was then considered to be drastic and ultra-radical. Delaware's George Read was against it. John Dickinson of Pennsylvania—the great advocate of conciliation—was also against it. These and some others did not think 1776 was the time for an out-and-out declaration of independence.

But there were enough votes among the delegates from the 13 states to make the decision in favor of independence. And when that day of July 2, 1776, was over and the leaders of Congress rested, they felt that they had hewn out of the calendar a day that would be always memorable and sacred in the lives of Americans.

Why then was the Fourth eventually singled out as the great day? Principally because the reasons for independence, as embodied in the famous Declaration, were read in several sections of the nation on that day, from courthouse steps and statehouse balconies and on the greens of state and county seats. The resolution of July 2 did not spell out the causes of the war nor did it express firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence.

It was the Declaration of Independence that captured the imagination of the people; not a mere resolution. And so the historic day of July 2 has been lost—and has given way to July 4 down through the years.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Question Of Security

On many questions, the real difficulty that faces our government is that we "just growed." Up to World War II, our people were not conscious of security. They assumed that the Germans and Japanese had spies in this country and that there were a few troublesome anarchists around. But generally it was held that an American was always a loyal citizen, no matter how peculiar his ideas might be.

Then the Harold Ware group appeared on the scene (1934) and the House Committee on Un-American Activities, under Representative Martin Dies, commenced its investigation of Communists, Fascists and other unusual people. It was not, however, until the Alger Hiss, Remington and Coplon trials and the trial of the first string Communists that Americans became conscious of a gnawing evil. Federal, state, governmental and private agencies appeared on the scene to wipe out this conspiracy.

In addition, several screwball organs appeared which confused anti-Semitism, anti-Catholicism, anti-Negroism, anti-New Dealism with anti-communism. Also some crooks got into the picture who discovered how to earn a living out of their opposition to communism. Their propaganda was not based on knowledge of Marxism; it was based on hate. Their profane advocacy of hate made genuine anti-Marxists ashamed and drove thousands of Americans into silence because they were unwilling, even in a good cause, to be identified with scoundrels.

Senator Joe McCarthy's service was to dramatize the issue. Toward the end of his hearings, tired, sick, battered for weeks by the opposition, he became entangled in a quarrel with the White House and was struck down by the full force of executive power. This particular quarrel could have been avoided by both sides; it had the effect of making McCarthy and not communism the issue. As between McCarthy and Eisenhower, most Americans chose Eisenhower.

Subsequent to these hearings, the Communists gained courage and again took the offensive. Many anti-Communists supported the issues that the Communists raised. For instance, a great many professors in universities felt that in the process of the battle against Communism, a general attack on "intellectuals" was being launched. The Communists cleverly opposed conformity and many who are not Communists also opposed conformity. This was one of those "big lie" slogans that Marxists project so skillfully. It has been successful.

The Fund for the Republic, which received $15,000,000 from the Ford Foundation, took up this fight and became a sort of actions committee on the side of what they call civil rights. It has worked out to be a defense organization.

The Fund for the Republic is a private body using tax-free money to do exactly on one side what it regards as improper for citizens to do on the other side. It employs investigators and snoopers to discover what active anti-Communists have been doing in the fight.

What is needed is a governmental policy on the subject. What are the precise functions and rights of the FBI? How shall its security be protected? What are the specific functions of the various security activities of the federal government and what are the rights of those who may be suspected of some such activity as Harry Dexter White's? How shall congressional committees conduct their hearings? What is the function of the Passport Office, the Immigration Service, the Department of Justice in the security set-up? Suppose a man is unjustly or spitefully accused, by what process does he clear his name? Actually, today, no swift and complete means are available for such a purpose.

"I Wish You'd Stop Admiring Yourself"

Studied Optimism Assumed Toward Summit Talks

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There's a studied optimism, a deliberately hopeful attitude being assumed here toward the Four Power conference "at the summit." It's a smart tactic. It puts the burden of frustrating the hope of the world on the Soviets if the conference fails. It removes any suspicion that the United States is going to the conference with a belligerent attitude.

But underneath the surface, where the facts of international life are well known, the sad truth is that everybody knows the only result that can come out of the Four Power conference is a decision to talk some more and through specific channels.

In the old days whenever governmental officials got into a mess, they appointed a committee or a commission to get themselves out of it or at least to postpone decision by further talk.

Form Of Postponement

What the Four-Power statesmen are about to do is to formulate a series of commissions or committees to take up specific items that are troubling the world. It's a form of postponement—of deferment. The disarmament problem has been drifting along that way for years. It will do no harm to drift along some more.

President Eisenhower is immensely popular today, primarily because he is neither an appeaser nor a warmonger. He holds to a remarkable degree the support of those in America who want him to explore every avenue that might give hope for peace and those who want him not to yield on any vital principle of morality or of justice to the oppressed peoples of the world.

On domestic issues, the President has achieved great strength. Tyros in politics, Trumanites and those who know little about grassroots sentiment in politics are mistakenly assuming that a Democratic Congress and a Republican President isn't a bad combination.

after all and might as well be continued.

But the facts are the Democratic Congress has cooperated not because it wanted to do so, but because it has been compelled to do so by reason of Mr. Eisenhower's great hold on public opinion. The Democrats are cooperating because they are afraid of Mr. Eisenhower's political strength and capacity for reprisal on the campaign front in 1956. They are cooperating not because they have suddenly become wise statesmen, but because they are good politicians.

As a matter of fact, the Democratic party is in worse shape today than the Republican party. For inside the Democratic party is a radical, socialistic group which would make mincemeat of Mr. Eisenhower's program if it dared.

The conservative Democrats are afraid of their radical brethren.

Shows Real Colors

There are outcroppings of it all the time. The Democratic group which wants public power and government ownership of public utilities, as well as eventually the nationalization of steel and autos and other major industries, shows its real colors when it keeps on yapping about the Dixon-Yates program.

Recently Senator Kefauver of Tennessee demanded what Senator McCarthy was so roundly condemned for demanding—the right to go into the executive department's files and pick out whatever would make good political ammunition. Curiously enough, nothing was heard about "legislative encroachment on the executive,"

Senate's 'Little McCarthy' Deserts McCarthy On Debate About Confab

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Joe McCarthy made many trips from the Senate floor to the Senate cloakroom during the debate which crushed him with a 77 to 4 vote against tying the President's hands at the Big Four conference.

Joe was nervous, shaky, upset at the criticism of old friends like Capehart of Indiana and Hickenlooper of Iowa. He had to go to the cloakroom to let off steam. What crushed him most, however, was the desertion of the senator who had been called the "Little McCarthy"—Herman Welker, Republican of Idaho.

Welker had used tactics that have out-McCarthyed McCarthy. He is one of Joe's close friends. Yet in the showdown over forcing the President to discuss the satellite countries at the Big Four meeting, Joe's old pal from Idaho joined the 77 who voted against him.

Reason is both simple and interesting: Welker is scared to death of his re-election chances.

He knows that the Idaho Power Company is getting ready to dump him and nominate William Holden of Idaho Falls instead. Idaho Power yields potent influence in Republican politics in his state, and although Herman faithfully parrots the company line in opposing a government big dam at Hell's Canyon, Idaho Power does not approve of Herman's other activities embarrassing to Eisenhower.

That's why Herman deserted his old friend Joe. Joe has been embarrassing to Ike and today Herman doesn't want to be in the same category. That's also why when Holden testified against Hell's Canyon, Welker hovered obsequiously over him like a hen with one chick. That finally is the inside reason why McCarthy is telling friends: "Welker and I are not on speaking terms."

Higher Gas Rate

Several million housewives would have been interested in the by-play which took place recently behind the closed doors of the House Rules Committee over the Harris bill, which would override the Supreme Court and take away the Federal Power Commission's right to fix the price of natural gas.

For that bill, if passed, will cost northern and mid-western housewives around $400,000,000 a year. As a result, there's been so much opposition to the bill that it was almost defeated inside Harris' own Interstate Commerce Committee. At first the vote inside committee was 13-to-13 and Congressman Harris had to beat the bushes to find one more vote to beat the tie.

Appearing before the Rules Committee therefore, the congressman from Arkansas, Harris, long-time staunch friends of big utilities, seemed despondent. He was definitely not happy. He asked for a resolution to investigate the pipelines and the big utilities that sell gas to the housewives in northern cities. But he did not want to probe the gas producers.

His hand was immediately trumped by Congressman Wolverton, Republican of Camden, N. J., where live thousands of the housewives who have to buy gas. He demanded a resolution which investigated the gas producers—the oil and gas companies that drill, extract the gas and sell it to the pipelines.

Why So Late?

Up spoke Congressman Ray Madden, Democrat of Northern Indiana, whose housewives also burn plenty of gas.

"I don't understand the reason for your resolution," Madden told his fellow Democrat from Arkansas. "You've been considering this bill for weeks, and now suddenly you ask for an investigation of the pipelines and the gas distributors. Why didn't you file this request last January? Then you would have had more information on which to base your bill."

"Well it wasn't done," snapped Harris, obviously in no mood to argue.

"What made up your mind to start this investigation now?" pressed Madden.

Harris hesitated, hemmed and hawed.

"Is this investigation you propose going to be a smokescreen to confuse the public?" asked the congressman from Indiana.

"No, these are two separate bills," replied Harris.

"Don't you think it's unusual to hold hearings on a bill for months and then at the last minute come in here and ask for an investigation?" persisted Madden.

Harris Couldn't answer.

"I'll go along with you," continued Madden, "if you'll amend the Wolverton resolution to investigate also the new Federal Power Commission."

"All the gas producers have to do these days is go down to the new Eisenhower power commission and ask for a price increase and they get it. They get anything they want. So let's investigate the FPC. Let's see why they get all these price increases."

17 Companies Benefit
Madden went on to point out that although Harris claimed his bill removing price regulation would help the 4,300 gas producers, actually it would chiefly help only 17 producers. For, he pointed out, 95 per cent of all the gas is produced by 17 big oil and gas companies. These 17 concerns, therefore, are the chief beneficiaries of the Harris bill.

Suddenly, during this closed-door session, Congressman Colmer of Mississippi announced that Speaker Sam Rayburn wanted the Harris resolution for a gas probe held up. Later that day, Rayburn made a significant statement. He said that Eisenhower would have to come out for the Harris bill publicly or it might not pass.

This Is On The House

By Brother Barnabas

Why preachers leave town is a puzzle to the laity. Once a year they pack their kit and hie away to some distant shrine, "whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the Lord, was decreed for Israel, to give thanks to the name of the Lord" (Psalms 122:4).

Some who are not in the know think they go up to swap sermons. If so, "our preacher certainly got a raw deal last year."

Others think they go for a vacation. But the fact that most of them take their wives along disproves that assumption, for how can one have a real vacation if he is under constant surveillance?

When the clans arrive there is the usual pump-handling, backslapping, chitchat, such as you find at a Fourth of July reunion, or when the Ladies Aid Society gets together in the fall after the summer siesta.

Wiseacres' Field Day

In the general jollification one hears good natured raillery and banter handed back and forth as old jokes are dusted off or new ones are cracked. And there is the polite man who listens with apparent interest to things he knows all about, as they are told by a man who doesn't know what he is talking about.

It's the wiseacres' field day. One hears of the "eccelesiastical bulldozer" who gathers up saints and sinners and ducats all in one scoop. As for theology, he doesn't know whether the race was born by natural partition or by a Caesarian operation.

There is the Pollyanna cleric who preaches hoop skirt sermons, going all around the subject and not touching it at any point. Admiring himself, he is the Narcissus type:

Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How you wonder who I are.

Transportation over 400 miles by train and automobile landed this peregrinator at Lakeside, Ohio, on the shores of Lake Erie, the seat of the North-East Ohio Methodist Conference for the week of June 20 to 26.

A few days sojourn away from "the city's stifling heat to the country's cool retreats" is good medicine for anyone.

And if you can spend them at a sylvan shrine where you are lulled to sleep by the gurgling of the waves and vegetation is so lush you can hear the leaves bud, you are doubly fortunate, especially if your expenses are paid, as they are by this conference whose constituency numbers approximately 240,000 souls.

Stand by for the "commercial." "This is on the house." You don't pay for what you don't read.

Pharaoh And Milder
Methodists and other egotists who proverbially revel in numbers will be pleased to know that North-East Ohio in its financial rating stands at the top among the 102 conferences of Methodism, having given 32 per cent above its quota for "world service" alone, during the fiscal year ending May 31, the sum of $456,419, not to mention other benevolences in like proportion.

If there was anything else to crow about it was the weather. Each day grew Pharaoh and milder. The "statistician modestly claimed no credit for that.

Partying at Lakeside relieves the high tension of the business sessions. College and seminary groups get together for pep talks. They let their hair down and gambol over the fields of memory.

Some have grown bald, some have joined the "brothers of the brush." Some carry their weight, some push it.

A preacher may retire at the age of 65. He must retire at 72. Then he may ticktock "Forever—never! Never—forever!" till like the "old clock on the stairs" he finally runs down.

One-hundred-fifty of these radio-active ministers and widows were toasted at a colorful banquet one noon hour. Bishop Hazen G. Werner and his cabinet suspended business and brought their ladies with them to enjoy the fine fellowship of the hour as special guests. Other dignitaries in attendance included Halford E. Luccock, the "Simeon Stylites" of the Christian Century, and Carl C. Bracy, president of Mt. Union College, the speaker for the occasion.

Cited By "Brother Anonymous"

The host of this splendid affair is a man whose name is withheld for his modesty's sake. His diversified philanthropic interests include worn-out preachers and their widows, orphan children and youth, and over-worked bishops' cabinets.

He and his gracious wife who sat beside him received an ovation, and he was given the citation "Demonstrator of Stewardship" by the toastmaster, "Brother Anonymous."

The conference is lavish in the provision it makes for dependent children and aged persons in its several homes and institutions.

Metropolitan hospitalization is carried for all retired ministers without cost to them, and of course group insurance is for all active members.

There are 111 retired men and 133 widows on the pension roll, subject to slight change when the figures are all compiled.

One may wonder at the disparity. It may be explained in this manner: The preacher's wife, bowed down by parsonage cares, the mothering of their children, and knowing too much about the official board, dies early. He marries a much younger woman. Then it is his turn to kaputt, and she goes on living.

Yours "on the house,"

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Pangloss, the peppery pilot, flew from one coast to the other for a big airline, married one of its most attractive hostesses, and in general was sitting pretty. He did like to go on a bender once in a while, however, which annoyed his bride plenty. One night she locked all the doors, and when Pangloss came staggering home, the poor lad couldn't get in.

"Hey, sweetie, open up," he begged. "We've decided to go on strike Monday, and I was held up at headquarters talking about it. Honest."

"The wife was not too impressed. 'Talking about the strike, eh?' she jeered. 'Now suppose you march right back to headquarters and tell them about the lockout."

Baltimore To Welcome Unit

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore is preparing to give Miss Fort Cumberland a big welcome when she makes her visit there prior to the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial.

An escort committee from the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will present Miss Fort Cumberland to the Baltimore mayor Wednesday.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said he received a letter from Mayor D'Alesandro yesterday that said he was making arrangements for her visit.

Water Supply Proposed

Mayor Roy W. Eves has turned over to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners a proposal made by a physician for a possible water supply for several communities.

The Cumberland chief executive told the commissioners that Dr. John A. Topper of Hyndman has suggested that a stream near the King farm at Ellerslie be utilized as a source of water for a number of communities. He listed them as Ellerslie, Corriganville, Locust Grove, Cash Valley and LaVale.

The communities listed, except for LaVale, do not have a regular water supply. The possibility of a water supply for industrial uses was also listed. The increased value of real estate and impetus to home building in the areas mentioned was also among the proposals resulting from such a water system.

Dr. Topper said the stream emanates from Wills Mountain and could be controlled at little cost. The commissioners took the matter under advisement and will have their attorney check into the legal aspects of the proposal.

Wilkinson Motion Is Lost At Session
A motion by Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson to give the job of auditing the LaVale Sanitary Commission books to John W. Rollins Jr., local certified public accountant, was lost yesterday for want of a second.

There were only Wilkinson and Commissioner William H. Lemmert at the board meeting as Commissioner James Orr is on vacation.

Wilkinson also questioned the payment of $41.65 to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, for mileage during June.

Will Filed In Court
The will of William Ewing, 84, who died June 21 at his home in Cresaptown, was admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court. His daughter, Mrs. Nellie Ewing Keefe, was named executrix. The children of the deceased are named beneficiaries.

Mayor, Council Are Sworn In At Ridgeley

First Meeting
Slated Tuesday

The recently elected Mayor and Council of Ridgeley were sworn into office last night.

At the outset of the organizational meeting, Rev. L. G. Bridgers, pastor of the United Brethren Church of Ridgeley and Potomac Park gave the invocation.

Following the prayer, Rev. Bridgers recalled that he was mayor of Ridgeley for one term and during his tenure of office, electric lights were put into service in the community. He thanked the city officials for asking him to say invocation.

Charles Fryer, former assistant chief of police who was recently elected mayor to succeed Mayor William Bidinger, presided over last night's meeting.

Cornelius Police Head

The oath of office of the various councilmen were read and approved. W. Merle Cornelius will head the police department, while Robert Zimmerman, reelected to office, will be in charge of the finance department.

Other appointments which were approved include William Knieriem as head of the Street and Alley Department, William Mickey, Sanitation, and Alston Dayton, Water and Sewer.

Mrs. Lenora Turner who was re-elected town recorder will also hold the position of treasurer. In other business transacted last night, Harry L. Detrick was re-appointed chief of police of the community, at a salary of $192 a month.

Blair O. Haines, a Western Maryland Railway employe, was sworn in as assistant chief of police replacing Mayor Fryer. Haines salary will be $50 a month.

Another applicant for that position was Robert L. Whitacre. At this point the bonds of the officials were approved and accepted.

Harry K. Drane, of Piedmont, W. Va. was named town attorney with a retainer fee of $100 annually. H. G. Shores of Keyser has been called in for legal advice prior to the naming of Drane.

The Second National Bank of Cumberland was approved as the bank for the depository of town funds. Hugh E. Duer was re-appointed night fireman of the community.

Myrl Zimmers was reappointed town plumber and street superintendent. He has held that position for the past two years.

Coffman Meter Reader
Herbert Tallman and Charles Mellon were named to assist Zimmers and will be paid on an hourly basis. At the suggestion of Mayor Fryer, Charles H. Coffman Sr. was appointed town water meter reader.

According to the treasurer's report as of June 30 this year the balance is $13,812.54 including $10,415.68 in the general fund and $3,396.86 in the water fund.

The report was accepted and filed. Letters are being sent to the flood committee denoting that their term has expired. They were commended by the Mayor and Council.

Mayor Fryer was unanimously named temporary chairman until a new chairman is named. Among other business discussed but not acted upon last night was the need of traffic signs on the outskirts of Ridgeley, as well as cleaning up the streets for the Homecoming scheduled July 25.

The first regular meeting of the new Mayor and Council will be held on Tuesday, July 5 at 8:15 p. m. in the council chamber.

Births

Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Forgiel, Providence, R. I., announce the birth of a daughter Thursday at St. Joseph's Hospital there. The mother is the former Miss Jane Hoehring of Frostburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rothe, LaVale, announce the birth of a daughter June 25 at Doctor's Hospital, Philadelphia.

Memorial Hospital
Mr. and Mrs. Ward N. Hauger, Jr., 631 Brookfield Avenue, a son Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Lucas Jr., 581 McMullen Highway, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clinger, Clearville, Pa., a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ruby, RD 1, city, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Larkins, 409 Bedford Street, a boy yesterday.

Sacred Heart Hospital
Mr. and Mrs. Harris Combs, RD Keyser, a son yesterday.

Return Home
City Police yesterday said Dorothy May Brown, 17, of 1600 Virginia Avenue, who was reported missing since Monday, has returned home.

George Barb, 31, of 405 Columbia Street, who vanished June 20 returned home Thursday.

New Ridgeley Council

Mrs. Lenora Turner, Ridgeley town recorder, administers the oath of office to the newly-elected mayor, Charles H. Fryer, as members of the new Council look on. They are (left to right)

A. Ted Dayton, Robert Zimmerman, Merle Cornelius, William Knieriem and William Mickey. The new Council organized and appointed committees at the meeting, first since the election.

Failed To Admit
Plea Of Guilty

An opinion and order have been filed by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court granting a new trial in a damage suit brought here by Gordon R. Leney, Olean, N. Y., and the Travelers Insurance Company of Baltimore against Guss E. Leatherman of McCoolle.

The plaintiffs, through Attorneys Walter E. Capper and Donald W. Mason, brought suit against the McCoolle man for $1,200 as a result of an automobile accident which occurred last September 21 on New York Route 17 near Kennedy, Chautauque County, N. Y. Leatherman, through Attorney Edward J. Ryan, then filed a counter suit for $1,000.

After deliberating a long time April 29, a Circuit Court jury found for the defendant in both the original declaration and the cross claim so that neither party won any damages.

Leney's attorneys filed a motion for a new trial on the grounds the court had erred in refusing to allow the plaintiff to refer evidence and admit testimony as to the defendant's plea in the criminal case which arose out of the same accident.

In his opinion, Judge Harris observed that Leatherman had confessed a plea of guilty of failing to grant the right-of-way to the Leney car at the time and place of the accident.

"Although the question has not been passed upon in Maryland, the majority view, succinctly stated, is that a plea of guilty is admissible," Judge Harris wrote. However a plea of not guilty is not admissible.

Judge Harris concluded by saying that he was granting a motion for a new trial solely on the grounds of the court's refusal to admit the plea of guilty of Leatherman.

Boys Implicated In Theft Here

Two more juvenile boys, reportedly away on vacation, have been implicated in the theft of a total of about $127.50 worth of fishing equipment from Storer Brothers Inc., 138 Virginia Avenue.

City Police Detective Joseph H. Stutcher, who investigated, said one of two other juveniles questioned in the theft of the fishing equipment implicated the two boys.

The other boy $50 worth of flies were recovered by police who said the juvenile involved admitted he did not know who got the rest of the flies.

Later, one of the juveniles questioned led police to where the other $50 worth of flies were located. However since some of them had been used, the proprietor of the store said he would be unable to sell them and restitution is expected to be made by the parents of the children.

Police expect to clear up the whereabouts of the balance of $18 worth of equipment when the two other boys return from vacation.

County Crew Begins Annual Drive On Japanese Beetles

Although very few Japanese beetles have yet been seen in Allegany County this year, the veteran crew of beetle battlers has already gone into action against the pests.

Hugh Stevenson of Ellerslie, a judge in Allegany County Orphans Court, again is in charge of the program. His assistants are J. Hubert Radcliffe, principal of Oldtown School, and Eugene J. Hopkins, teacher at Allegany High School.

Since about the middle of June Hopkins and Radcliffe have been spreading milky disease at strategic points, especially in the eastern portion of the county where the beetles generally are most prevalent. The disease is most effective in preying upon the beetles.

Local Man To Be Invested In Capuchin Order July 13

A Cumberland youth, Eugene Burkey, will be among the 11 graduates of St. Fidelis Seminary, Herman, Pa., who will receive their habit in the Capuchin Order at St. Conrad's Priory, Annapolis, July 13 and 14.

Nine Capuchin novices will pronounce their simple vows at services in the chapel of the priory during the special two-day ceremonies.

The local cleric is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose J. Burkey, Bedford Road, and a member of St. Peter and Paul parish, where he attended elementary school.

The professions will be made at a public ceremony on July 14 with Rev. Kieran Quinn, OFM Cap., officiating and Rev. Valentine Young, OFM cap., a native of this city, preaching the sermon.

Vows will be pronounced by Rev. Gilmary Tallman, Hays, Kan.; Vance Pastorius and Quentin Connors, Pittsburgh; Carl Quinn, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Barry Estdad, Braddock, Pa.; Justin Der, Bridgeville, Pa.; Warren White and Vernon Busch, Pittsburgh, and Earl Meyer, McKees Rocks, Pa.

To be invested at a private ceremony July 13, when they will receive their religious names, are:

Eugene Burkey, Cumberland; Michael Kozaske, Coatsville, Pa.; James Jones, Turtle Creek, Pa.; James Studeny, Pittsburgh; Paul Dinkel, Hays; Francis Hutter, West View, Pa.; Dennis Haselhorst, Antonino, Kan.; Robert Newman, Charleston, W. Va.; James Gross, Hays; Paul Finerty, Pittsburgh, and John Bartemas, Charleston.

All are graduates of St. Fidelis Seminary, one of the seminary colleges operated by the Pittsburgh province of the Order of Friars Minor, Capuchin.

Liquor Dealer Cites Reasons For Price Hike
A spokesman for local liquor dealers said the increase in the state excise tax on liquor effective yesterday is only one of several reasons why the retail price of whiskey became higher yesterday.

The spokesman said it has been the policy to allow retail liquor dealers to deduct one per cent from their bills when paid to the wholesalers within 20 days. Now the State Comptroller has issued a ruling prohibiting this discount effective yesterday.

Most liquor dealers were expected to raise the price of whiskey 10 cents a fifth beginning yesterday. Five cents of this represents the increase in excise tax from $1.25 to $1.50 a gallon. The spokesman said the elimination of the discount for retailers will cost them another four-and-one-half cents. The other half cent will be charged to markup on the tax so that the retailer will get no benefit from the 10-cents-per-fifth increase.

One brand is raising its prices 15 cents a fifth and the retailers will gain an additional nickel profit from sales of this whiskey.

It is understood that the increased price for most liquors will be three cents a half pint, six cents a pint, 10 cents a fifth, 12 cents a quart and 25 cents a half-gallon.

Man Arrested Here Admits Forging Check

James Woody Held
In Ridgeley Jail

A Kirby, W. Va. man, arrested here yesterday, has been turned over to West Virginia authorities in connection with the alleged forgery of a check for $60.

Police Chief Harry Detrick of Ridgeley yesterday said James Woody was taken before C. J. Philips, justice of the peace of that community, and pleaded guilty to writing the check and cashing it. He will be held for action of the July term of the Grand Jury of Mineral County.

Woody will be taken to Mineral County Jail in Keyser tomorrow. Justice of the Peace Philips, who said Woody is on parole, asked him if he could post bond, which would be $500, and the suspect said he couldn't.

He was then committed to the Ridgeley jail. Woody was nabbed yesterday afternoon in the Western Union office where he had gone to pick up a money order reportedly sent from his mother in Kirby.

Arresting officers were Lt. James E. Van of the City Police Detective Bureau and Chief Detrick. Some time ago Woody was reported to have purchased a used car from a dealer in Ridgeley.

The balance of his payments was about $20, police said. Woody reportedly wrote the check out to himself and used the name of a Kirby resident as payer.

After endorsing the check, police said, he went to the used car dealer who cashed it, giving him the balance in currency. This was on June 25.

Meanwhile City Police noticed a car parked on a downtown street for quite a few days and had it towed into a local garage. Through West Virginia Police they had the license tags traced to the Kirby owner.

Woody's wife, according to police, came to Ridgeley yesterday to pay the balance of the bill. Questioned by police, Mrs. Woody gave a description of her husband and said his mother reportedly was to send a money order to him sometime between 2 p. m. and 4 p. m. yesterday.

Friend's Term Is Suspended
BALTIMORE, July 1 (AP)—Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen today suspended an eight-month prison term he imposed Monday on Blaine H. Friend, Garrett County lumberman and stockyard operator.

The 40-year-old Accident, Md., resident admitted he did not file an income tax return in 1951 and was fined $8,000 in addition to the prison term.

Today, John H. Hessey IV and Steven R. Pagenhart of Oakland argued for several hours that Friend's business was essential to his community and that loss of the stockyard business because of Friend's absence would have a "profound effect" on the county's economy.

"He is a country boy grown up and has done business out of his back pocket all these years," Hessey told the judge and asked for a change in sentence.

At an earlier hearing, it was disclosed Friend had not filed tax returns since 1944 and the government claimed he owes $50,960 in back taxes and penalties.

Friend made a total of $7,500 in 1951, the year he was charged with not filing a return.

Soil Conservationist Gets New Position
John W. Barnard, who visited Cumberland and Allegany County frequently in his capacity as state soil conservationist, has been appointed to a new position in the Washington office of the Soil Conservation Service in which he will be in charge of the conservation needs of the entire country.

He will be succeeded, effective today, by Arnold W. Bolle, who has been an area conservationist in Idaho. Bolle has just concluded a year of study at Harvard on a fellowship in public administration.

George's Creek Flood Survey Funds Available

Preliminary Step
Expected Soon

Sufficient federal funds apparently have been found to prepare a subwatershed work plan for the George's Creek watershed, according to Charles S. Harvey, chairman of the George's Creek Flood Control Association.

Harvey has just received a letter from Senator J. Glenn Beall enclosing another letter which Beall had received late in June from Assistant Secretary of Agriculture E. L. Peterson.

Peterson wrote to Senator Beall that the Soil Conservation Service is now planning to allot sufficient funds out of the 1956 flood prevention appropriation for the Potomac River to prepare a subwatershed work plan for the George's Creek watershed.

The preparation of such a work plan is a necessary step in determining the flood prevention needs of the area and hence must precede work on the installation of flood prevention devices, Peterson explained in his letter.

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture added that the George's Creek watershed is part of the Potomac River watershed for which works of improvement for flood prevention to be done by the Department of Agriculture were authorized by the Flood Control Act of 1944.

Arnold Bolle, who is coming from Idaho to assume duties as new state soil conservationist, is expected to come to Allegany County later this month for an examination of the George's Creek watershed. This is a preliminary step to the arrival of a survey team from Pennsylvania which will prepare the subwatershed work plan.

Kimble, Long A Lawmaker, Will Become Lawyer
BALTIMORE, July 1 (AP)—A man who helped make many a Maryland law is finally going to become a lawyer.

Burning the midnight oil like any college freshman will be veteran ex-lawmaker Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County, a former state senator and now chairman of Maryland's Employment Security Board.

Kimble doesn't have the usually required college education for training in law and at the last session of the General Assembly a bill was introduced to make some changes.

It was Kimble himself who slipped in the amendment to make it okay for a man "over 50" who had been a resident of Maryland since 1918 to take night training and try for the bar examination.

Kimble, who is 52, was helped by a friend, Speaker of the House John Luber, in getting the amendment introduced.

Those eligible had until today to register with the Board of Law Examiners. Kimble, out to realize a life-long ambition, didn't miss the deadline.

Girl Scout Board Visits Annual Summer Camp
The board of directors of the Cumberland Girl Scout Council held its July meeting at Camp Potomac Thursday evening, and members were guests of the six units of Girl Scouts and Brownies camping there this week.

This is the second and final week of this season's Girl Scout established camp and 97 girls are registered. Last week, there were 101 attending. These are record figures for the Cumberland Council Camp, according to Miss Olive Hurlbut, Scout director.

The council's year is continuing its Counselor In Training, or CIT program, designed to train and certify qualified senior Scouts as future Girl Scout camp counselors. Three girls are in the CIT group this year, their second year of the program. They are Miss Arlene Green, Miss Mary Jane Howell and Miss Alice Bartlett.

The girls are assigned to Units No. 6, with Mrs. Elizabeth Williams as counselors, and according to Mrs. Williams and Miss Hurlbut the CIT group has made excellent progress and its members are among the most diligent workers at the camp.

Safety Unit Urges Care On Holiday

Western Maryland's Safety Council, relying on "the power of positive thinking," has disregarded the negative advice of many traffic experts by asking motorists to keep one thought in mind—"Slow Down and Live!"

The National Safety Council estimates that 380 people will die in traffic accidents during the next three days. Speed will be the direct cause or a contributing factor in at least 85 per cent of these deaths.

Therefore Lynn Walker, executive chairman of the local safety group, has pointed out a few dangers in excessive speed. The crumpled fender resulting from an accident at 30 miles per hour becomes a "twisted, broken mass of steel and splintered glass," in the mishap at high speed.

"The human body has no defense against a fixed object or another automobile," Walker continued, "each projecting lever and knob on the dashboard and doors becomes a deadly weapon to batter and tear passengers as they are hurled out their seats."

Walker pointed out that the added hazards of splintered glass and fire reduce the chances of escape from injury in an accident.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE
Cumberland's $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant is taking shape. Mayor Roy W. Eves reported yesterday in recounting progress made on the project during the week ending June 25.

Grading was completed, he said, for the bottom slab of the primary digestion tank, reinforcing steel placed and 124 yards of concrete poured for the structure on June 24.

The contractor the Moyer Brothers Company, of Altoona, set in place the inside forms for the first lift of the wall for the secondary digestion tank, and set reinforcing steel for the lift.

Forms were also completed for the final pour of primary clarifier No. 1, and reinforcing steel set in place.

Excavation for the primary gate chamber was also completed, and reinforcing steel mats had been prepared.

The contractor had completed excavation for the plant's chlorine contact tank.

Considerable progress was made, the Mayor said, toward laying underground piping which will serve the primary treatment plant.
